and a little Pearline, and you have the best preparation in the world for washing and cleaning. It will do everything except harm. Use it on your clothes, your dishes, your paint, and your person. Try it on something that you think is too delicate or too difficult. It will silence your doubts in the one case, and save your strength in the other.

Send it Back Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, be honest—send it back. JAMES PYLE, New York.

I contracted the Chronic Diarrhœa in the Army, and since 1865 I have been a constant sufferer. In addition to this I was troubled as follows: 1st, a lame Back and Kidney trouble, 2d, Dyspepsia, 3d, Faintness and an all-gone feeling, 4th, Distress at pit of Stomach, 5th, Headache and Dizziness; 6th, Muscular Rheumatism in Chest so I had to lie in bed for weeks at a time; 7th, a Severe Heart Trouble that would cause my pulse to run at 90 for days at a time. I was treated by very eminent Physicians, but would be compelled to leave my labors and return to my home weeks at a time—in fact I have had 14 fits of sickness in the last 20 years, and several times have been given up to die.

Of a Severe Attack of Dyspepsia—Another Testimonial Which Proves That Hidden's Compound is King in Stomach Troubles—When All Other Medicines Failed to Help, Hidden's Compound Cured.

To all who suffer from stomach troubles we heartily commend this sterling testimonial from the pen of George E. Pearson. People everywhere should bear this important fact in mind. The medicine which cures at home is worthy of confidence abroad. Try Hidden's Compound. It will cure you

Newburyport, Mass., Sept. 26, 1892.

HIDDEN MEDICINE CO.,

GENTLEMEN Feeling it a duty to the public and to all who suffer from stomach troubles, I wish to relate my experience with Hidden's Magnetic Compound. After an attack of the grippe last winter my stomach became bad, and I suffered a great deal as a result. I was in distress all the time, and everything I ate or drank caused a burning sensation at the pit of the stomach as if I had taken scalding water. This burning was always followed by a foul taste arising in the throat, causing both annoyance and distress. I tried everything in the shape of medicine, but got no relief whatever. At last I made up my mind to throw prejudice aside and try a medicine made here at home. I bought a bottle of Hidden's Magnetic Compound and relief followed the very first dose. Before two-thirds of the bottle had been used my stomach was all right once more. I can now eat heartily and enjoy my food thoroughly. It is over a year since I dared to drink coffee. Now I can drink it without the slightest distress. My stomach is well, and Hidden's Magnetic Compound is entitled to the credit. Yours truly,

GEORGE E. PEARSON.

Are you sick? Then why not throw prejudice aside and try Hidden's Compound. It will cure you. Order it of your druggist to-day. IT IS THE COMING MEDICINE.

FLAX FIBRE AND TARIFF.

A New Industry Created in the Northwest.

Farmers Beginning to Find that the Seed is not the Only Valuable Part of a Crop of Flax—Inventions that Make it Easy to Treat the Straw—A Mill in Minnesota.

Among the industries greatly aided or altogether created by the Republican protective system are flax fibre works, the first of which has been established at Austin, Minn., about sixty miles south of St. Paul. It is an industry of importance to the whole country, and could never have been made possible were it not for passage of the McKinley bill. It means a saving of many million dollars a year to the farmers of this country, and at the same time lowers the price of goods manufactured from flax to an almost corresponding amount. The works at Austin are the result of an ingenious scheme for preparing flax fibre for the manufacture of linen goods and fine paper devised by a chemist named Pennington, who has labored for years in New York perfecting the plan.

Some time ago a sub-company formed the American Flax Fibre Association, with headquarters in New York, and they came here for a suitable location, and finding the required resources beyond their expectations, at once set about the erection of a plant which is now completed, and will be put in operation when this year's flax crop is harvested. There are already a few linen mills in this country, but the prepared fibre which they use comes almost wholly from Europe, and the flax growers have been in the habit of throwing and burning as useless the flax stalks, there being no market for anything but the seed. The low tariff on the imported prepared fibre brought it into this country at a rate almost too cheap to permit of American competition, and millions and millions of dollars have gone up in smoke or been permitted to rot every year in the great harvest fields of the Northwest in consequence. But at last manufacturers have awakened to the resources of the industry, and the farmers are beginning to believe that the seed is not the most valuable thing about a crop of flax.

The seed itself usually brings a good price, averaging about $1 per bushel, but the value of an acre field when the flax is sowed for the fibre will be immensely augmented, and that, too, at much less labor than found necessary before in threshing the seed from the straw.

The exact price which will be paid for the straw has not yet been fixed upon, although it will range between $5 and $25 per ton, according to the kind and quality. Several experiments were made last year which proved that the industry could be put on a paying basis, and this fall will see the mill in full operation, and consuming all the flax brought to it from the entire Northwest. Another factory may be established near St. Paul or Minneapolis in a short time, rumors to that effect now being current, but nothing has yet been given out to the public.

The effect of this will, of course, be more than local. The farmers in the Northwest will be the first to profit directly by the opening of the industry, but their brothers throughout the United States will share the profits with them in the shape of cheaper linen goods. Then, too, it may have the effect of starting linen and flax mills throughout the entire country, and the industry seems destined to become one of the important ones of the United States. Tests have been made already which show that linen of first-quality can be made from the flax grown here, and the method employed promises to exceed even the most sanguine expectations of its inventor in results. W. E. Rothermal, of New York, who is one of the officers of the company, said.

"Most of the flax cleaned in Europe is manipulated by hand and in Russia this is particularly the case, where convicts are employed to do the scrutching. The system in vogue there is to lay the flax on the ground in the open air, and depend upon the rain and dew to separate the coat from the stalk. This method often takes eight weeks of exposure. After this one man can put in shape for the mill only about twenty-five pounds a day. In France, Germany and Belgium the average number of pounds is a little larger. In Ireland a more approved method is adopted. After the flax has gone through the "rotting process," the Irish scutch-wheel worked by a man and a boy, cleans and carts about 150 pounds a day. My brother and I have spent nearly five years on the invention of a machine which will, after the straw has passed through the chemical process, clean and card 7,000 pounds a day with the aid of twelve men. These machines will be used for the first time in the plant at Austin, and I think I am not over-confident in predicting a revolution in the industry."

Mr. Rothermal added that the idea had its inception long before he had ever heard of McKinley or his famous bill, but that he had never really seen his way to putting his invention to practical use until its passage gave some show to linen manufacturers on this side of the water.

The rotting process which will be employed is a strictly natural one, and provides certain chemicals which act as food for the microbes that develop into rotting agents. Pure water can never rot flax, at least in anything like reasonable time. The microbes that are contained in the water are, therefore, the rotting forces, and certain substances are necessary for their vigorous growth and multiplication. Mr. Pennington intends to supply these substancies in proper quantities, exactly as a farmer adds fertilizers to his lands when they are exhausted or do not contain the necessary elements of growth.

It has been found that the waters of certain rivers will not rot flax, while others act unusually quick. This, said Dr. Pennington, is because of a dearth or plentifulness of microbes in the water.

The reason for placing the factory in Minnesota is easily perceptible. It is the center of a large flax growing country, and one county in Southern Minnesota alone grew over 40,000 acres of that substance last year. The average of straw product is about two tons to the acre, and this shows that about 80,000 tons of straw were thrown away by the farmers of one county alone. As at the present time they are paying from $5 to $10 for flax straw, which is not of the best adapted for manufacturing purposes, these farmers of the county threw away over $500,000 in one year. The flax grown in the past was best adapted to seed purposes, and hence the low price paid. This year, however, the farmers are growing the Belgian flax, which is the finest variety known for fibre. The stock grows very tall. A great many farmers have used Belgian seed in the last year obtained through the Agricultural Bureau in Washington, and are much pleased at the outcome. From Belgian straw the farmers can reap a larger income than from the seed it produces, as it can be sold all the way from $10 to $25 a ton. The cost of transportation at first will be considerable, but once the success of the new enterprise is apparent, flax mills will be started up all over the Northwest.

The people of this country have but a vague idea of what the outcome of this plant will be. The industry is just in its infancy, although there are a number of mills using the green flax tow that has been [illegible], which of course [illegible]

MAINE MELANGE.

Prosperous Season Reported in the Great Garden of Maine.

Farmers will Receive Big Money for Their Products.

A Queer Fish Caught, and Other Matters of Interest.

Aroostook.

Dr. Young, Secretary of the State Board of Health, who has been investigating the outbreak of typhoid fever at Ashland, found twenty-five cases of the disease there. He will make an analysis of samples of drinking water used in the town, which is supposed to have caused the epidemic.

Mr. S. W. Stevens, who owns the handsome farm just north of Presque Isle village will not be found among the grumblers at the dispensations of Providence this season. He planted about forty acres of potatoes and has two thousand barrels to sell. His potato crop will net him between four and five thousand dollars.

Engineer Miles, who is engaged in revising the location of the Bangor & Aroostook Railroad, got through with his work in and near Presque Isle village and is now at work on the line between Presque Isle and Caribou. The location of the line through the village will not be definitely settled until decision is made by the company on the data submitted by the engineer.

A committee of the Non-partisan W. C. T. U., Mrs. T. N. Ervin and Mrs. J. H. Oak, have shown commendable activity this week, says the Presque Isle Star-Herald, in soliciting subscriptions for the purchase of flags to be raised Friday, of next week, on the public school building on the occasion of the Columbus celebration. We are glad to say that their canvass has met with a liberal response on the part of the citizens and that the flags will be forthcoming.

The Presque Isle Star-Herald says: The potato crop promises to bring nearly or quite as much money into the hands of farmers as two years ago. The yield per acre is not as large in most cases, but the plant is enough larger to offset the shrinkage per acre. In addition to this the country has a better hay crop, and will market it at better prices. There is also a very much larger grain crop. On the whole, this should prove the banner year. One cannot go anywhere in this broad and fertile county without finding examples of success in farming that are worthy of mention as illustrating what industry and good management combined with the natural advantages of soil may accomplish. We found such a case in a recent trip to Bridgewater. At Bridgewater Corner, two young men, William and Charles Whitehead, are tilling the paternal acres, which number between two and three hundred. This is their record for the season. First, they built a barn forty by fifty in size, on which their total cash outlay for labor and material was but fifty dollars. After that they went in and raised about twelve hundred barrels of merchantable potatoes, one hundred tons of fine hay, and two thousand bushels of oats, worth in the market at least $3,500. Their outlay for farm help has been but a mere trifle, and it is safe to say that they will net $3,000 from their season's labor. In view of this chapter of Aroostook farming the advice to "go west, young man" would hardly seem to apply to the youth of Aroostook.

Cumberland.

The Brunswick Telegraph says a curiosity in the way of a fish was caught at Mere Point the other day. The fish was about the size of an ordinary sculpin, which it somehow resembled. Its abdomen was inflated until it looked like a pouter pigeon. Prof Lee examined it and pronounced it to be a sea robin, a deep sea fish. He said the swelling was caused by a clam or flounder, and the robin was cut open, when out fell a live flounder. The robin was eleven inches long and four wide, while the flounder was nine inches long and three inches wide.

Louis Migneau, a sailor, reached Portland, Wednesday night, with $145 in his pockets. He invested $40 in a new suit of clothes and two cents in a clay pipe. Soon after he was stopped by a man on the street who proceeded to subdue a blaze on his coat, which is supposed to have been come ignited by a spark from the pipe. Migneau quickly pulled off his coat and threw it on the ground. In a second the fire was out and so was he, to the extent of $101 98, as a careful search failed to find his pocket-book or money.

A young man named Perley Frost, while at work in one of the Pondecherry Company's wooden mills at Bridgton, Tuesday night, was seriously injured in the head and arm, and narrowly escaped instant death, by being caught in a belt, carried up over the pulley, and wedged in between it and the ceiling.

Rev. Elijah Kellogg is out again, though still lame from the effect of his accident, and obliged to use crutches.

Mr. Simeon Shurtleff, one of the best-known of the elder citizens of Portland, died at his home on Spring street, Thursday, after a long illness. He was a member of the common council in the year 1860-6, during the administration of Mayor Howard.

The Norton Clasp Shoe Company has been organized at Portland, for the purpose of manufacturing and dealing in boots and shoes with $100,000 capital stock, of which $15 is paid in. The officers are President, William Norton of Lynn, Mass., Treasurer, Henry A Henderson, of Lynn, Mass. Certificate approved Oct. 12, 1892.

Crocker, the man who went to Colby to coach the foot ball team, was called home again immediately by the illness of his father. Another man has been secured. Mr. Morse is a graduate of the class of '91 Amherst. He played on the college team during his whole course. Last year he played on the team of Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Autumn games will be played on the Colby campus late in the fall. A game has also been arranged with the Boston University team. Work has already begun on the new bath rooms. The cellar under the gymnasium will be enlarged and six baths be put in. Four hundred dollars has already been subscribed by the students alone. It is expected that the rooms will be ready when compulsory "gym" work begins in November. Captain O. S. Hall, of the Colby base ball nine has decided not to return to college, but has secured a position as city editor of the Waterville Sentinel. This will be a severe blow to the ball team, as Hall was one of the best players on the nine. The new captain has not yet been chosen, but will probably come from the Junior class.

A SOLDIER'S STORY.

"Given up to Die" by the Doctors.

He Thanks God for Sagwa and Prays for Its Success.

LEAVENWORTH KANSAS Aug 1 1892.

I deem it my duty to tender this my testimonial as an offer of gratitude for what "Kickapoo Indian Sagwa" has done for me. I came out of the army in the fall of '65 broken down by chronic dyspepsia in its worst form, and also enlargement of the heart. I consulted the best physicians, and visited institutions in the East, and one and all told me the same thing,—I never could get well.

By suggestion of an old comrade I took Kickapoo Indian Sagwa, and thank God for it. Sagwa has changed my life from misery and pain to one of health and gladness and I can now eat anything without distress. My heart is all right and my friends are astonished.

The physician who knew of my case and heard of my cure said that a medicine that is capable of making such a cure, he not only endorses but cheerfully recommends to any one.

If this testimonial comes under the notice of any soldier who is suffering, let him take the word of an old comrade—buy a bottle of Indian Sagwa at once and may God prosper you with the success of this remedy is the grateful prayer of

Mr. Blaine's Speech.

The impromptu speech delivered by Mr. Blaine, in New York, Friday night, will have an inspiriting effect on a canvass already giving encouraging indications of Republican success next month. Like all of Mr. Blaine's utterances it was an admirable effort, replete with sound advise and containing an earnest appeal to the people to protect their own welfare by protecting the prosperity of the country. As he so well said there probably never had been a time since our government was instituted when the prosperity of our people has been so general. The situation is one to make every loyal American glow with pride, but it remains for the Democratic party, the party that has placed every possible obstacle in the way of success, to now ask the voters to put it in a position to wipe out the policy under which the prosperity of the country has been enhanced in such marvelous proportions, and substitute therefore a policy that would transfer said prosperity to the other side of the Atlantic.

It is for this reason that the British press is so earnestly watching for the election of Cleveland. The Republican system of protection means the still further development of American industry; the election of Cleveland means a revival of the languishing industries of England whose people are turning covetous eyes in the direction of our splendid market. This fact gives especial significance to Mr. Blaine's remarks to the Irish-American voters. It is, as he says, one of the mysteries of our politics that a question which interests England so closely that her papers are full of it, should receive the support of any considerable number of Irishmen. In Ireland they have a terrible illustration of the effect of British free trade and yet they come to this country and vote with the Democratic party to do the one thing desired by England more than anything else, namely, destroy the American system of protection.

Mr. Blaine addressed but a comparatively small number of people who had assembled to do him honor, but his remarks will reach hundreds of thousands of voters who will read and be strengthened by the words of the great American citizen, for whom they entertain the most profound admiration.

The Voice of Labor.

Friday was a bad day for the New York Democrats. The stirring speech delivered by Mr. Blaine caused much unhappiness at the calamity headquarters. They had hoped that the great American citizen would not raise his voice in the campaign, but he has struck a blow for the cause of protection that will awaken a rousing response in the coming election. It has already given an impetus to the canvass in the Empire State that is the cause of many misgivings on the part of the calamity managers, who are vainly trying to break the force of the vigorous appeal to the people.

The same evening a great army of laborers packed Cooper Union Hall to place their opposition to Cleveland and free trade on record. It was a meeting of the Industrial Alliance and was marked by the most earnest enthusiasm on the part of the wage earners. In New York the Democrats have sought to keep the tariff question in the background, knowing that their position was an unpopular one with the men who work for their living in the various industries that have grown up as result of protection. When forced to touch upon the matter it has been in a way intended to deceive the voters as to the real purpose of the party, but the days when the average workingman can be misled by the demagogical speeches of Democratic orators have long since passed.

To-day the workingman is making a study of these questions so closely connected with his welfare, and as a result thousands of them who have heretofore acted blindly with the Democratic party are now enlisting under the banner of protection. At the meeting Friday night a platform was adopted which reads as follows:

The representatives of the Industrial Alliance of New York, in convention assembled, announce to their fellow citizens that the purpose of the Alliance is to promote the welfare of American wage-workers, to try to provide the necessary remedies for existing social and political evils that menace the interests of labor, to help perpetuate the economic principles lying at the root of our National prosperity, and in brief to support in the present National contest the candidates of that party which, in our judgment, stands for American industries, American homes and American manhood.

As residents of this, the foremost manufacturing city of the country, we are naturally proud of the metropolis, of its commercial prominence, of its industrial greatness, and of the well-being and happiness of its toiling masses. Our desire is to have New York maintain the highest position among the cities of the world, and with this ambition, we appeal to our fellow-citizens to join us in our efforts to promote the industrial and commercial interests of our city.

Our principles are briefly summarized in this general declaration of political faith. We endorse the National system of protection to American industries as against the sectional policy of free trade. We know through experience that protection means high wages and social comforts and luxuries for workingmen, while free trade means low wages, poverty and degradation. As men who derive their livelihood from industrial pursuits, and whose political opinions are based upon their everyday practical experience, we protest against the evident purpose of the Democracy to degrade American labor by juggling with the tariff for political purposes. We hold that the McKinley law has had an excellent ...

... the key to the political situation. The problem is a perfectly plain one. A vote for Cleveland is a vote for free trade; a vote for Harrison is a vote for protection—the former means the degradation of labor and the latter "high wages and social comforts." Every workingman in Maine should read the platform adopted by the Industrial Alliance and vote accordingly.

Cheering Reports.

The Boston Sunday Herald prints a Washington despatch under the above caption saying that the President and his friends are constantly receiving news of the most encouraging character. In Wisconsin and Illinois the utmost confidence is expressed that the Republicans will win a grand victory. The Democrats have been indulging in many idle hopes concerning both of these States, but it is not a good year for rainbow chasing. In Illinois the Democrats have now abandoned all idea of carrying the electoral vote and are making their fight on the Governor ticket. In Wisconsin both the National and State tickets are reported all right. The New York World's Cleveland sick fund for corrupting the vote of the West has not proved a success. Out there General Prosperity is in charge of the Republican canvass and as a fighter he is a terror to the calamity party.

Jacob Litt and Thomas H. Davis proudly present their latest acquisition, the powerful and picturesque play,

A Nutmeg Match.

Written by William Haworth, author of "The Ensign." With all its startling, realistic and picturesque scenic and mechanical effects, including the soul stirring, pulse quickening pile driver scene. It beats them all. A monster pile driver run by a big steam engine, operated by a skillful engineer, is shown in full blast. All other so-called stage sensations are now relegated into oblivion.

The summit of realism at last successfully surmounted. The all-star cast still led on by the accomplished comedienne MISS ANNIE LEWIS, aided and abetted by Mrs. Fanny Denham Rouse, Mrs. E. A. Eberle, Miss Helen Weathersby and Messrs. Henry Herman, Earl Brown, R. F. Sullivan, E. A. Eberle, David Warfield and other skillful players.

The most notable novelty in sight.

Sale of seats opens Friday, 14th instant.

PANIC AT THE OPERA.

An Awful Scene at an Amusement House.

BUDA PESTH, Oct. 16. A highly exciting scene occurred last night in a place of entertainment in this city.

While the performance was in progress in the opera house, a woman who occupied a seat in the gallery suddenly became very ill and the attention of every one in the house was attracted by her moans and struggles.

The unfortunate evidently suffered severely, and in a short time it was discovered that she had been attacked with cholera.

The news quickly spread among the audience, and in a very short time the whole place was in an uproar.

In fact, so frightened did the people become that they seemed to lose all control of themselves, and their sole concern appeared to be to escape from the place as rapidly as possible.

They rose from their seats en masse and a panic ensued.

A precipitate rush was made for the doors, and in the mad scramble to escape many persons were badly bruised and clothing torn and disarranged.

In the meantime the stricken woman was lying entirely unattended and it was some time before medical assistance reached her

She was finally removed to the hospital.

INCENDIARY ATTEMPT

To Destroy a Tenement House in Brooklyn.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15. An attempt was made early this morning to burn the large tenement, 130 Attorney street.

The fire was started in the barber shop of Abraham Katz, on the ground floor, but was extinguished before any serious loss was done

The 19 families that had apartments in the building had been aroused by the cry of fire and made their escape by means of the fire escapes and stairways.

An investigation by the fire marshal revealed unmistakable evidence that the fire was of incendiary origin.

In some of the drawers in the barber shop were found a quantity of rags saturated with kerosene.

Katz has not been arrested, but it is thought he will be. He has already told a number of conflicting stories with regard to his whereabouts at the time of the fire

A DESPERATE FIGHT

Among Negroes on a Train—Knives and Pistols Used.

BOONEVILLE, Mo., Oct. 15. A terrible battle was fought with knives and pistols on the Missouri, Kansas & Texas passenger train which reached here from the South yesterday afternoon.

Twelve negroes were on the train. Four of the party, John Searcy, Frank Harris, Henry Wheatley and James Cornelius, engaged in a game of cards, and when within a few miles of the town, quarrelled and fought desperately.

Searcy shot Harris through the abdomen after Harris had stabbed Wheatly near the heart, and both will die.

All were kept on board the train until it reached here, when another battle occurred

Searcy fled after shooting five times at the officers, but he was finally captured and lodged in jail. Cornelius remained on the train and ...

Great Britain's ... Immense Damage Done.

Many Lives Sacrificed and Numerous Vessels Lost.

People Driven From Their Homes by the Flood.

LONDON, Oct. 15. Tidings of disaster from the storm which set in night before last over northern England, Scotland and Wales, continue to be received and loss of life by shipwreck is beginning to be reported.

The fishing yawl, James and Robert, was capsized yesterday in a heavy squall in the Firth of Forth, Scot., nto which she was putting for shelter. A crew of five men were drowned.

Much damage has been caused by the floods in various parts of the country. At Leed the River Aire has flooded its banks and overflowed the adjacent country.

Houses in Holbeck and Hunslet, on the south side of the Aire, have been flooded, and in many cases their occupants have left them, fearing that they might fall.

So severe is the gale that a number of craft at various places along the coast have been taken from their moorings, though extra anchors were put out, and sunk after being about the harbors.

At Malton, in the north riding of Yorkshire, on the river Derwent, it has rained continuously for 40 hours and the storm shows no sign of abatement.

The Rye and Derwent rivers have overflowed and the country for miles about is inundated.

The floods have naturally been most disastrous on the moorlands. Half the crops still unharvested, are submerged, and vast areas of pasture land are impassable except by boats.

At Durham, which is nearly surrounded by the river Wear, the water is very high.

The railway bridge has been swept away by the torrent, causing heavy loss, and further damage is apprehended.

When the bridge fell a freight train was just going on it, and the engine and loaded vans went to the bottom of the river.

Houses Flooded.

LONDON, Oct. 16. The river Aire in Yorkshire overflowed its banks, inundating eighteen square miles in the district of Pontefract. Many families were compelled by the flood Saturday and Sunday to take refuge in the upper stories of their houses, from which they were rescued by boats. Dozens of houses were undermined by the water and collapsed. Many mines in the district were flooded. The loss of stock is very great. In Yorkshire, the sewers burst under the strain of the great volume of water rushing through them, and as a result the streets were flooded and became impassable. Business is suspended and the public buildings are closed.

The floods in Yorkshire are the most serious which ever occurred in that county in the memory of the oldest inhabitant. Railway traffic is completely diverted from the usual channels. The damage to property is enormous. The bridge at Selby, on the York and Doncaster railway was destroyed by the floods. Thousands of acres of land were submerged in Barnsley district and many people are moving their effects from their homes.

The floods at Leeds caused by the overflow of the river Aire, is subsiding.

The floods in Derbyshire are causing a large amount of damage. Many horses and cattle have been drowned.

AN ELOQUENT SPEECH.

Mr Depew Gives Sound Facts on the Issues and the Candidates.

NEWPORT, R. I. Oct. 15. Hon. Chauncey M. Depew addressed a monster Republican meeting in the Opera House tonight. Ex-Governor George Peabody Wetmore presided. Mr. Depew called attention to the fact that the present campaign was not generally recognized as one of enthusiasm and the reason he found to be that the people of the nation are enjoying such prosperity that they neither see nor care that a possible calamity may follow a reversal of policy. This prosperity is the result of Republican measures and Republican successes.

It was formerly an axiom that we had a commercial panic every ten years, yet we have not had one now for 19 years. But let the Democrats carry the country and we shall have a panic of the old fashioned sort. Mr. Depew professed great respect for Harrison, and pronounced it the crowning glory of the nation that the chief magistrate had ever been unsullied. Between the two rival candidates, one the other is in doubt; one stands on the party platform, the other apologizes for it; one is no better than the party, the other is claimed to be. The speaker characterized Stevenson as a copperhead in war times, a greenbacker and free coinage man, while he eulogized Reid as a loyal and able editor and statesman.

No other President had ever grown in public esteem after taking the office, but Harrison enjoys the unique distinction of landing 100 times higher now than four years ago. Reference was made to his ability as a public speaker and a touching allusion to the shadow of the great sorrow resting over his household at present. In conclusion he prophesied Harrison's triumphant re-election.

PASSED A QUIET SUNDAY.

Mr. Blaine goes to New York to-day—Returns to Washington Soon.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y. Oct. 16. Mr. Blaine had a quiet Sunday at Ophir Farm. None of the prominent Republican leaders called to see him, and he spent most of the day with Whitelaw Reid and his family. The Ex-Secretary did not go to church in the morning, on account of its being stormy. When it cleared off at noon Mr. Blaine, Mr. Reid and family came on the veranda where they remained until luncheon time.

Mr. Blaine went out riding this afternoon with D. O. Mills, Mr. Reid's father-in-law, returning at 5 P. M. After that hour Mr. Blaine kept to his room.

Mr. Reid said Mr. Blaine intended to go to New York to-morrow morning to meet Mrs. Blaine at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, where they have engaged rooms for their stay in the city. Mr. Blaine would not return to Ophir Farm, as there was nothing to call him back. From New York he will probably go to his winter home in Washington. Mr. Reid said Mr. Blaine had somewhat improved in health since his arrival at Ophir Farm.

NO IMMEDIATE CAUSE

For Alarm in Mrs. Harrison's Condition.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16. The balmy Indian summer weather has a depressing effect on Mrs. Harrison and increases the nervousness from which she suffers greatly. Consequently she is even less well and strong to-day than for the past two or three days. One symptom in her case recently has been exceeding drowsiness. This drowsiness has passed away to a certain extent, but ... increased exhaustion.

There is no cause ... for immediate alarm. Dr. Gardiner after his visit this evening said Mrs. Harrison was resting quietly and was happy. There are no present indications of fresh complications in her case.

Prominent Locked Out Men Say That is Correct.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., Oct. 15. The Local News, a Homestead paper, created a sensation to-day by coming out with a lengthy editoral declaring that the strike is lost.

The same paper was, during the inception of the wage struggle, an organ for the locked out men, and the advisory committee published statements in its columns. To-day's issue is, therefore, unexpected, and causes much comment.

Many strikers are angry and are stopping their subscriptions. Editor Schotley's article was, however, submitted to several prominent locked out men, and was admitted correct before publication.

UNHAPPY DEMOCRATS.

Having Hard Work to Carry Out Their Scheme of Dividing the State.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 16. Yesterday the Democratic State Committee began mandamus proceedings against Secretary of State Brown, to compel him to place the names of nine electors on the Democratic ticket on the Australian ballot. This he before declined to do, on the ground that four names were also on the Weaver ticket, and he claimed that he could place only the names of five Democrats in the Democratic space, because otherwise there would be a doubling of names. The Secretary directed the State printer to print the names of only five Democratic electors.

Yesterday the Democratic committee asked the State supreme court for a writ of mandamus, but that body refused on the ground that no mandamus could lie against a State officer under the constitution. Later a writ was issued by Judge Brill, of the district court, compelling Secretary Brown to appear Monday and show cause why he should not place the names presented by the Democrats on the State ticket. When the officers appeared at the State capitol to serve the writ Secretary Brown and his chief deputy had fled and the papers could not be served. Marshals are scouring the State in search of the flying State officers.

Later—Secretary Brown is now at home here and will appear in court with his attorneys to-morrow morning.

BOWDOIN. 56; COLBY, 0.

Foot Ball Game at Brunswick, Saturday.

Colby fell easy victims to Bowdoin in the foot ball game at Brunswick Saturday afternoon by a score of 56 to 0.

The teams were about equal in weight, but Colby showed but little knowledge of the game. The Bowdoin men blocked off in a most satisfactory manner, showing great improvement in this line under Trainer Crocker.

Carleton, Bowdoin's full-back, was as usual the great ground gainer, although Sykes, Stubbs, Quimby and Kimball made a great showing. For Colby Jordan played the best game doing some splendid tackling. Only twenty minute halves were played.

NEWSPAPER ARCHIVE®.COM

At 1.35 this morning an alarm of fire was rung in from box 39 and it was only a short time before the fire department was on hand. The fire was in the boarding house at the corner of Union street and Haymarket square. When the THE WHIG reporter and the firemen arrived the flames were bursting through the doors and windows down stairs and it looked as though the fire had been burning some time. The firemen had a line of hose at work in a twinkling but as the fire had gotten all through in the house the partitions it was a stubborn fire to subdue.

Mrs. Conners, who kept the house, got out of the house safely, as well as the other occupants. There was not a large number of boarders. One man was aroused from his sleep and opened the door of his room to be confronted with a flood of smoke. Thinking his last hour had come he broke through a window and climbed on to the high fence between the house and Mr. McCann's premises, and from there to the ground, quite an exhibition of ground and lofty tumbling. He hurt his foot and hand in breaking the glass and jumping. After getting over his scare he went back for his clothing and $165 in money, by the stairs.

The fire went completely through the house to the attic, the smoke pouring from the cellar, sides and roof. The wind was fortunately away from Mr. McCann's buildings. Thorough work was done and the fire soon put out. The loss will be several hundred dollars. The house was not worth much. There is said to be an insurance in Curran's agency. The firemen are deserving of the greatest credit for the manner in which they handled the fire. It caught in the kitchen, Mrs. Conners said she did not know how.

Over the Pulp Mill Explosion Fatality.

Several Witnesses Testify at Orono Saturday.

Saturday forenoon the coroner's inquest over the fatality occasioned by the recent explosion of digesters at the mill at Basin Mills of the Bangor Pulp and Paper Company was held at the selectmen's room of the Orono Town Hall begining at 9 o'clock and lasting until noon. Coroner F. Lancaster, of Old Town, had previously empaneled the following jury, all being citizens of Orono: Charles Buffum, Nathan Frost, W. F. Chase, W. S. Marshall, O. T. Abbott, A. J. Durgin and W. H. Fighter, the latter acting as secretary. County Attorney C. A. Bailey conducted the examination of the witnesses and C. F. Woodard, Esq., of this city, was present as counsel for the company.

The first witness was Mr. Charles H. Sawyer, of Bangor, general manager of the Bangor Pulp and Paper Company. He testified that he presumed the immediate cause of the death of the men was the explosion of one or two digesters in the mill. He was on the spot about five minutes afterwards. The digesters were deoxidised boilers 9 feet in diameter and 24 feet long. They were set up on end and were about an inch thick. Steam was sent into them through a two and one-half inch brass pipe from the steam drum to the bottom nozzle of the digesters. The digesters were set on a granite foundation and iron posts. The steam drum was two feet in diameter and about five feet long. It was fitted with steam guage and pressure valve, and a three-quarter inch pipe led from the bottom and a pipe led to the sewer. On that was a valve and trap the inlet pipe leading from the boiler with valve at the outlet where it came out of the steam drum on top of the boilers.

When the digesters were ready to fill with chips, they were put in at the top and the cover was bolted on. In the cover is a thermometer plug for taking the temperature, and a relief pipe with two plug cocks, operated with a wrench. After the chips are in the acid is pumped in through the bottom until it stands at the proper height as indicated by the gauge. Sulphurous acid is used.

Then steam is sent in from the boiler as rapidly as possible and not run it down too fast in the boiler. It usually takes two hours to get up cooking pressure. The steam has to be put in slowly in order to maintain equal pressure in both digester and drum. The pressure is from 60 to 65 pounds. It runs up from 0 to 80 in about two hours. The digesters have been in use eighteen months. Their material is deoxydized bronze made of copper, and tin. This process of cooking has been in operation about four years. The witness said he knew of one disaster in Watertown, N. Y., and another in Ohio, the digesters being of the same metal, which is a ductile metal. Continual use has shown in this case that the metal has decreased in strength and fibre. The effect of the acid on the metal is to wear it away and make it thinner.

The digesters have been examined by the head cook every week carefully. He went into them all himself. A test has been made since the accident. Mr Smith, head cook, had been with the company about a year. He had charge of applying the steam and of putting in the acid. The acid was not made under his charge and was tested by him. The operation of the digesters was under his supervision. The relief pipe with which the digesters were fitted were to draw gas from the top and allow steam to come into the bottom. The acid could be drawn off through the relief pipe. The witness stated he could advance no theory for the explosion except the weakening of the metal from some cause. He thought it was the middle digester that blew up. It was the one nearest the drum. From 100 to 110 pounds of steam were run from the boilers.

The pressure on the digesters can be regulated at pleasure. The digesters are inspected every three months by the insurance inspectors. The last inspection was made September 24th and he had a certificate of inspection dated October, 1892. The capacity of the mill has never been reached. Seventeen tons a day have been made. Chips enough could not be made to keep the digesters going.

The digesters were kept going night and day, when there were chips to keep them going. Don't think the pulp would cook any faster if the pressure should be above eighty-five pounds. The cooking depends on the heat and not the pressure. We had a royalty to make ten tons per day. The digesters have never been crowded above their capacity. The witness did not think it was so hard on the digesters to have them continually at work as to have them cool off and be heated again.

The witness thought that the explosion was caused by steam pressure and weakness of the digesters. He could see no cause for the digesters being unsafe when he examined the digesters. It was necessary to get one new head for one of the digesters. Its wearing out was caused by running it without proper packing. The metal wears faster when the acid and pressure is moving through than when it is at a standstill. Digesters that have exploded in other places were made by the same concern that made these. One exploded first and that sent off the other.

Superintendent C. B. Clark, of the mill, testified that he had been connected with the mill since June 1st, 1892. Had had previous experience in building pulp machinery in Lawrence, Mass., but no experience in making pulp until he came to this mill. Was in the office when the explosion occurred. The digesters had been running night and day with two crews. He made a tour of the mill every morning to see the state of the pulp. When he was last there he thought they would be ready to blow in three-quarters of an hour. The explosion was fifteen minutes after he was there. He had been inside the digesters and saw nothing unusual. He had no instructions to crowd the mill. Mr. Smith made internal examinations every week, and the insurance inspectors have examined them. The guage indicated 106 during the night and up to the time of explosion.

Frank S. Allen, of Hartford, Conn., of the boiler inspectors commission, testified that he had not tested the digesters until since the explosion. He was connected with the firm that insures the digesters. The last inspection was made by Mr. James Rice. The examination is always very thorough. He found that the material had deteriorated faster than it was anticipated. It should have stood a pressure of 275 pounds if only half an inch thick, and as strong as claimed.

He had tested the material with a hydraulic jack and was surprised at the ease with which it was crushed. There was nothing in any report of the inspectors which gave any idea of the condition in which the metal seemed to be. The owners of the mill had no reason to anticipate that there would be an accident. From what he knew of digesters there is no more strain when run constantly than when run only part of the time.

H. E. Eddy testified that he has been employed as cook since December, 1891, in the digester room. Was at home when the explosion occurred. Everything was apparently all right when he left. Had examined the digesters every two weeks and had not seen any change in them.

OBITUARY.

Mrs Susan W Roberts

In the death of Mrs Susan W Roberts, briefly announced on Friday, a large circle of friends will mingle their sympathy with a doubly bereaved family. A few months since its honored head, one of our best known and most esteemed citizens, passed away, now followed by his beloved partner, who equally shared with him the love and esteem of a wide acquaintance in social and religious relations through many years, and whose active interest in benevolent efforts will long be remembered.

Mrs Roberts was the oldest daughter of Edward Smith, one of Bangor's most enterprising citizens more than half a century ago. She married the late Mr. A. H Roberts in 1844. Three daughters and two sons are left, the oldest of whom is the well known head of the long established business house of A H Roberts & Son. Two brothers, J. P. A and Walter Smith reside in Pittsfield Mass.

The funeral occurred yesterday afternoon and was largely attended. Rev Dr Field, so long pastor of the Third Church, of which both she and her husband were original members, conducted the service and paid a most tender and earnest tribute to her domestic virtues and her social and religious worth.

The Apollo Quartette sang several feeling selections. The floral designs were very beautiful and appropriate. The bearers were Messrs. P G Stickney, I S Johnson, J G Clark and J M Daggett. Mr Charles S Pearl had charge of the funeral arrangements. The interment was at Mt Hope.

AMUSEMENTS.

A Nutmeg Match To-Night

Jacob Litt and Thomas H. Davis' new comedy drama, from the pen of William Howarth, entitled "A Nutmeg Match," which will be given at the Opera House to-night and to-morrow night, has been meeting with much success. In a scenic way it is said to be especially fine. One of the striking scenes of the play is introduced in the fourth act, when a steam pile driver is shown in full view of the audience. This mechanical apparatus is seen in active operation, while the hissing of the steam, the sounding of the whistle and the regular working of the engine, form a trio of a life-like reality. There are other scenes which are said to be realistic. Miss Annie Lewis is the star and the support is said to be good.

Notes.

A special train will be run from Old Town to-morrow evening to accommodate residents of the up river towns who wish to see "A Nutmeg Match."

Oliver Byron in "The Plunger" will be at the Opera House one week from to-night.

"Mr. Wilkinson's Widows", by Charles Frohman's company is an early booking at the Opera House.

Bandmaster D. W. Reeves of the American band of Providence, R. I., has decided to accept the offer made him by telegraph, to become the leader of Gilmore's band, it is reported. He wired his acceptance.

ON OCTOBER 17, 1849, Frederic Chopin, the illustrious composer and pianist, died in Paris.

He was born near Warsaw, in 1810, and was one of unhappy Poland's greatest sons. Frail, sickly, and not precocious, he began the study of the piano when nine years old and subsequently settled in Paris, which was to be the scene of his greatest triumphs, and death after nine years of ill health.

Mr. Daniel McLeod, of the Maine State College at Orono, spent Sunday at his home in this city.

Mr. Addison Blake, of Hampden, was in the city Saturday calling on old friends and acquaintances here.

Miss Mabel Bridgham, of Bangor, has been visiting with her sister, Mrs. C H. Ford, of East Eddington.

It is reported that the recent fair held in East Eddington netted about $200 showing that it was most successful.

The Ladies' Sewing Circle connected with the First Congregational church, is to hold a meeting Wednesday afternoon for work.

Mrs M. F. Saulsbury has gone to Brockton, Mass., called there by the serious illness of her daughter, Mrs. William Parker.

Saturday was one of the pleasantest days of the fall, an ideal "Indian Summer" day, and it was much enjoyed by people who got out of doors.

Capt J. W. Bennett and Engineer L. C. Moore, of this city, have been at Parker's yard, in Bucksport, taking the machinery apart and otherwise preparing the steamer Viking for winter.

Arrangements are being made for the carrying on of a singing school in the neighboring town of Orrington, during the coming winter, under the instruction of Mr George Moody, of Bangor.

The work of sheathing the hull of the ferry boat Bon Ton with copper, in preparation for the ice, which the little steamer will encounter later on, has been finished, and she was again carrying passengers back and forth, Saturday.

Mr M. E. Maling still makes that bread, the quality of which is so well known as being the best, and is prepared to furnish it all times. Delicious oyster stews are served at all hours and oysters and crackers for family use. He has some of Eaton's famous "ye olden times" molasses candy in stock.

Miss E. M. Jones, the well-known milliner, has recently returned from Boston and New York with a full line of the very latest styles, and announces her opening to occur on and after Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. She has an excellent stock, in great variety, and invites all the ladies to call and see the beautiful selections she has made.

A very pleasant event occurred at the residence of Capt. and Mrs George H. Barbour on Brimmer street, Friday evening, the occasion being their first wedding anniversary. Only a few were expected to be present, but when the time came a surprise was in store for the popular commander of the steamer Sedgwick and his wife, for a large number of guests arrived, bringing many presents and wishes for the long life and happiness of their hosts. Refreshments were served during the evening, and the time was passed in a manner that made the occasion a most pleasant one for all present.

A SERIOUS FALL. Saturday forenoon two men, Mr. Albion K. P. Saunders and his brother, Mr. E. G. Saunders, who were at work painting Mr. G. W. White's residence on Holyoke street, met with quite a serious accident. They were working with the usual appliances, on a ladder suspended horizontally by the wall of the house, and at the time it was situated about 20 or 25 feet from the ground. The last named man was on this ladder, but the first mentioned was five or ten feet higher, on a step ladder supported by the horizontal one. Suddenly by the slipping out of one of the hooks from which the support was hung, both men were precipitated to the ground. Albion fell on his face. He struck a rock which injured his breast, although no bones were broken, and in addition to other injuries suffered a sprained wrist and a badly bruised face. The other struck on his side, and his worst hurt was a sprained ankle, but his head was cut and he received other bruises. Both men were badly shaken up. They were taken to their homes on Main street and received medical attendance, and yesterday were getting along as well as could be expected. The accident will keep both from work for some time, and they will have the sympathy of all in their misfortune and the pain it has inflicted on them.

MARVEL CONCERTS.

Two Interesting Events in the City Churches Sunday Evening.

In two the churches in the city, the Sunday Schools gave harvest concerts last evening, and both were largely attended and very interesting events. At the First Congregational church there was a large audience, and the decorations were most appropriate and beautiful. The exercises passed off very smoothly, and the participants reflected great credit on themselves. The concert was most efficiently arranged and was the work of Mrs. E. P. Farrington. The following was the programme:

Organ rotuntary, Miss Gertrude Bennett; singing by choir; prayer; responsive reading; singing by school; recitation, Miss Grace Woodbury; singing by choir; Scripture recitation, Miss Arey; class recitation, Master Kavanaugh; singing by school; Secretary's report and collection; Mrs. Royal's class; Miss Upton's class; singing by choir; Miss Annie Hardy's class; Mrs. Pierce's class; Miss Alice Farrington's class; singing by school; Mrs. Allen's class; recitation, Miss Sue Sweet; singing by [illegible] tune, "Old Hundred," and the school

AGRICULTURAL.

Cotton Seed Meal.

The fertilizing value of cotton seed and cotton-seed meal is a subject of the highest importance not only to the cotton planters and stockmen of the South, but to farmers of the North. Prof. Henry says: "In order to show the high manurial value of cotton seed, I have gathered into the following table the fertilizing constituents in a ton of our leading feedstuffs:

| | Phosphoric acid. | Potash. | Nitrogen. | Valuation. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Oat Straw, | 1.3 lb | 27.0 lbs. | 7.6 lbs. | $2.26 |
| Shelled corn, | 15.7 lbs | 7.2 lbs | 27.5 lbs. | 6.21 |
| Wheat bran, | 51.3 lbs | 17.0 lbs. | 47.2 lbs. | 12.19 |
| Linseed meal | 38.6 lbs | 23.8 lbs | 100.8 lbs. | 21.52 |
| Cotton seed meal, | 55.0 lbs. | 38.8 lbs | 130.4 lbs. | 28.68 |

We see that cotton-seed meal is even richer than linseed meal, twice as rich as bran and more than four times as rich as corn in the element of fertility. A fattening animal does not take over 10 per cent. of the fertilizing elements given in the food. A dairy cow may take out as much as 20 to 25 per cent. From this we can readily understand why eastern farmers who look to the fertility of their fields are ready purchasers of cotton-seed meal, and why the southern farmers, with a soil not strong in itself, should carefully harbor all of the fertilizing resources of their cotton seed and not allow it to be wasted. It was a Yankee schoolmaster who taught the southern people how to separate the lint from the cotton seed by machinery before the war. After the war northern talent and capital found the cotton seed behind the gin-house and only used as best for manure to sprinkle along the cotton rows, when rotted. Out of the seed it expresses millions of gallons of valuable oil every year leaving an enormous residue. It was northern enterprise that helped in starting the feeding of cattle the waste products of the cotton-seed mills. It has been northern young men in the southern experiment stations that have given us about all the available data on the feeding value and effects of cotton seed and its products. When asked what science has done for agriculture one can point to no finer example than the utilization of the seed of the cotton plant as now being put in practice.

Value of Fertilizers.

The directors and chemists of certain stations agree each year upon a schedule of trade values of fertilizing ingredients. Referring to the schedule of 1891, the Farm Journal finds that nitrogen ranges in price from seven cents per pound in horn shavings, hair and coarse fish scrap, to 18½ cents in sulphate of ammonia; phosphoric acid is priced at three cents per pound in coarse bone and tankage, and eight cents per pound if soluble in water, as in dissolved bone or dissolved rock; potash varies in price from 4½ cents in muriate of potash to 5½ in sulphate of potash. These figures represent what farmers were required to pay for fertilizer material in ton lots for cash. Armed with these figures and the analysis on the bag, a farmer is prepared to make an estimate of the true value of any fertilizer offered in the market. All he needs to know in addition is how to calculate percentage, and a few tricks of the trade. If the manufacturer guarantees his compound to contain not less than three per cent of nitrogen, a ton will contain sixty pounds. If the manufacturer is honest, this will be worth not less than 15 cents per pound or $9. Supposing it to contain seven per cent. of phosphoric acid, soluble and available, there will be 140 pounds in a ton. This at eight cents per pound will be worth $11.20. A high-grade fertilizer will contain not less than five per cent. of potash, or 100 pounds per ton, which will be worth $4.50. We should add to this about three per cent. or sixty pounds of insoluble phosphoric acid worth $1.80.

This makes the value of the material foot up $26.20. The cost of mixing, bagging, agents' commissions and freight added to this will probably bring the price up to $35 per ton by the time it reaches the farmer. If the manufacturer guarantees three per cent. of ammonia instead of nitrogen, it is well to know that ammonia is not exactly the same as nitrogen. In 17 parts of ammonia there are 14 parts of nitrogen. Therefore, to get the correct figures we must divide the three per cent. by 17 and multiply the result by 14. Thus we get 3.47 per cent. of nitrogen. If the analysis guarantees 20 per cent. of bone phosphate it does not mean 20 per cent. of phosphoric acid, for bone phosphate contains only about 46 per cent. of phosphoric acid. In this case the figures should read 9.20 per cent of phosphoric acid. It is the percentage of actual potash that should be given. Good muriate of potash containing about 50 per cent. of actual potash. All this will guide the farmer in dealing with honorable firms. It must not be forgotten that fertilizers may be mixed that will show by analysis a mercantile value of $25 or $40 per ton, that agriculturally are not worth half that amount.

Quality, Not Size.

As an exchange says, mere size in cattle is becoming as objectionable to-day as mere size in hogs already is. The heavy-weight hog was formerly the high-priced hog, and the larger the size the higher the price a pound. But in these days the buyer of pork is after meat, not lard, and so the meaty rather than the lardy hog is what the market wants. The same condition exists regarding cattle. Kerosene went into the tallow business, tallow is not the valuable article it was in the days of the candle. There is also a more fastidious taste abroad in the land regarding beef. Certain parts of the carcass are relatively more highly prized than formerly and therefore command higher prices; and it is also found that the young, quick-maturing animal yields up the sweetest, juiciest cuts. The result of taste and discovery has been to increase the price of the well-made animal. Size of itself is not objectionable, but size alone is not enough to command the highest price. Quality, not quantity, is the pathway that cattle must travel to reach the goal of maximum price. Form, development, early maturity are now the prize takers in all markets.
